12 MONTHS OF TRAFFIC WOES DOWN THE ROAD

Four sets of upgrades on a two-mile stretch of A414 to ease jams

Gemma Gardner
gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

MOTORISTS using a two-mile stretch of the A414 in Harlow face 12 months of disruption because of roadworks to reduce congestion.

Essex County Council is investing in four major improvement projects between Edinburgh Way and Harlow Enterprise Zone at London Road to cut congestion during peak periods.

But the work which will take approximately a year to complete, is likely to cause significant delays for motorists using the A414, including the Edinburgh Way stretch, and First Avenue.

County Hall's cabinet member for highways and transportation, Cllr Rodney L Bass said: "The A414 is the prime distribution route for Harlow, as well as the major through route between Chelmsford, Hertford and beyond.

Vital

"It is vital we do everything we can to ease congestion, keep this important artery open and to encourage growth and prosperity."

The scheme will involve creating a signal-controlled junction with the A414 and the Enterprise Zone.

It will create a segregated right turn onto London Road in the Enterprise Zone and two "continue ahead" lanes in both directions on the A414.

First Avenue (B183) will also be widened to two lanes in each direction with a dedicated left turn as well as widening Edinburgh Way.

ALL CHANGE: Gates Roundabout, Harlow
Picture: Vikki Lince HEV20150728C-881_C

As First Avenue will become four lanes wide, safety barriers will be provided to deter pedestrians from crossing and vehicles from stopping in unsafe locations.

Edinburgh Way leading from the Cambridge Road roundabout (Gates roundabout) will be widened, with two lanes in each direction, as far as the River Way roundabout, and the existing signals at East Road will be upgraded.

Cambridge Road Roundabout will be realigned to accommodate the construction of a dedicated left turn from A414 onto Edinburgh Way (A414).

Access

There will also be a new access road from Cambridge Road to the Templefields Enterprise Zone on River Way.

Works to move utilities cables and plant will begin this week and will take around five months.

The main construction will get under way in autumn 2015.

John Keddie, chairman of the Harlow Enterprise Zone, added: "Harlow is an important business location and the development of the Enterprise Zone means it needs the road network to sustain this."

"It also has the potential to create up to 5,000 new jobs over the next few years and the road improvements will significantly enhance our ability to deliver them."

Smiles all round at nursery's charity fun day

IT was fun all the way when a Harlow nursery held a charity fundraiser which raised £600.

More than 100 children, parents and friends attended the event at Blossoms, in London Road. Attractions included a bouncy castle, games, face-painting and a barbecue, while some of the smaller animals from Pets Corner in Harlow Town Park proved particularly popular.

All the proceeds were donated to the Darcie-Mai Project, a charity helping to support sick and premature babies and their families.

Nursery manager Bobbi Chana said it was a fantastic day. "We hold a charity event every year and each year is bigger than the last. I'm so proud of my team to make this day successful. Everyone was smiling and enjoying themselves, they didn't want to leave."

"We are so happy with the turnout and to be able to help raise money for this wonderful charity."

Crash victim treated in hospital after collision

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MOTORIST left "shocked and shaken" after her car was badly damaged in a hit-and-run incident in Harlow is appealing for help to catch the culprit.

Sharon Salter, 45, of Westfield, Harlow, spent several hours in hospital following the crash shortly after 9am on Monday.

The collision happened while she was driving in Foster Street, where she keeps her horse.

"As I was turning I was hit from behind by a white [Land Rover] Freelander," said Mrs Salter. "The impact spun my car around and I was facing the other direction."

"Two guys got out of the Freelander and asked if I was all right and I said no. They said we would exchange details but as I wound the window back up they got back in their car and drove off."

"I called the police but I have no more information about the car."

DAZED: Crash victim Sharon Salter

She described the men as having beards, being in their late 20s and were smartly dressed.

"I was quite hysterical," she said. "They just drove off and left me."

"I was feeling dazed as I hit my head hard in the impact. I also hurt by back and shoulders and I had to be taken away to hospital in an ambulance."

She was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital where she was treated and released later in the day. However, she said she had been left emotionally battered by the incident.

Mrs Salter said her car, a silver Peugeot 207, sustained serious damage as a result of the crash and, if not a write-off, will require major repair work.

Essex Police confirmed the accident had been reported to them.

A spokeswoman said: "We are investigating a two-vehicle collision which happened in Foster Street, Harlow, at around 9.15am. It involved a silver Peugeot 207 and a white Land Rover Freelander which left the scene."

Anyone who witnessed the crash or who has information about the driver of the Land Rover should contact police on the non-emergency 101 number.

Former world pool champ to perform at charity night

FORMER pool champion and world number one Carl Morris will be visiting Harlow next weekend for a charity event at the Tye Green Indoor Bowls Club.

Mr Morris, who was born deaf, was crowned WEPF Eight-ball Pool World Champion in 1998.

He will perform trick shots, give tips and take part in exhibition matches during his appearance at the club in Tillwicks Road on Saturday, August 8.

The event has been arranged by polyposis sufferer Jason Brace who aims to raise money and awareness to fight the life threatening genetic condition which affects the bowel.

Mr Brace, 44, of Velizy Avenue, had an operation when he was 17. He lost his father to polyposis and five of his six children also suffer from the condition.

Mr Brace is treasurer and head of fundraising for the charity Poly People which provides support and information to people whose lives have been affected by the disease.

Operation

"My dad died of the disease in November," he said. "I turn 45 in October but without an operation when I was 17 I would never have made it to 40."

"Five of my children have the condition but it doesn't usually affect you as a teenager. However, you will need your large bowel removed to carry on with life."

Mr Brace, who receives regular check-ups from a specialist doctor in London, added: "It is a really rare condition and we are a small charity who act as a support group to help sufferers."

"We have not yet got a base and we are currently set up in St Mark's Hospital in London," he added.

The pool exhibition fundraising evening will also include a raffle and food provided by local businesses Subway and Ice Bites.

Tickets for the event cost £5; for more information call Mr Brace on 07445 464595.

James set to take part in bike challenge

A CYCLIST who bought a bike after being inspired by Sir Bradley Wiggins' success in the 2012 Tour de France will be taking part in a 100-mile ride for charity this weekend.

James Barnett, 33, of Rundells, Harlow, will set off from Stratford in the Prudential RideLondon event on Sunday.

The challenging course will follow a route through Richmond Park and out to Surrey, taking in the notorious Box Hill, which featured on the 2012 Olympic cycling road race. The ride will return to London for the finish several hours later.

"I've given up every Sunday morning since February for this," said Mr Barnett. "I had a bit of a setback with my knee last weekend but I'm over that now and I'm looking forward to it, although I am a bit nervous about the hills."

"I will have a few cycling buddies at the start line with me."

Mr Barnett is raising money for St Clare Hospice and Cat Protection and has already exceeded his £300 target.

Trio steal from home of woman

A TEENAGE boy is believed to be one of three people who forced their way into an 84-year-old woman's home in Harlow.

The trio, who were wearing masks, called at the victim's home, in Church Leys, on Tuesday afternoon before forcing their way inside and stealing jewellery and cash.

The woman was shaken but not injured.

Nicole scores 162 in Mensa IQ test... ...so she's cleverer than Einstein and Hawking

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A GIFTED 12-year-old Harlow schoolgirl has recorded a perfect score in a test set by the high IQ society Mensa.

Nicole Barr scored a mark of 162, which is not only two points higher than physicist Albert Einstein and Professor Stephen Hawking, but puts her in the top one per cent in the world.

According to Mensa, the average adult IQ score is 100 and a score above 140 is considered to be that of a genius.

Nicole, who comes from the travelling community, is the daughter of James Barr and Dolly Buckland.

Nicole said: "When I found out I got such a high score, it was so unexpected. I was shocked."

The Burnt Mill Academy schoolgirl, who enjoys reading, drama and singing, hopes to study to become a doctor.

A family member said Nicole was gifted from a very young age, adding: "She would complete children's puzzles in seconds and has always been very artistic."

When Nicole was a pupil at Epping Upland Primary School she was several years ahead of her peers, tackling complex algebra before the age of 10.

Memory

She has an excellent memory and picks up new material very quickly.

"I remember when I was in primary school and I was an angel in a school play, another girl who was playing the other angel didn't turn up so I learnt her lines too," said Nicole.

Unlike most children her age, instead of reading the novel handed to her for World Book Day, Nicole went through it highlighting errors.

The talented youngster attends drama classes with Make Believe performing arts company in Harlow and will soon be appearing in a performance of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night.

As a result of recording an IQ of 162 she has now been given the honour of being welcomed into Mensa, meaning she will join a network across the globe.

Helena Mills, head of BMAT schools which includes Burnt Mill Academy, said: "Nicole is a brilliant pupil. She works incredibly hard and has thrown herself into so many different activities in her first year with us. "For example she has been camping, entered writing competitions and taken part in a national maths challenge."

"She lives and breathes our unofficial motto of hard work pays."

Consultation a cosmetic sham

SIR Two letters published in last week's Star on the subject of a new M11 junction at Harlow are depressing.

Our MP has reneged on his support for a bypass The £51m dualling of the A414, the £4.7m installation of an extended cycle tunnel and road widening at the Clock Tower are everlasting monuments to the failure of both Conservative and Labour governments and Essex County Council's highways committee to think about the quality of life in a green garden city.

The answer is a bypass, a southern route: this would be an effective economic medium and long-term solution.

I fail to understand why your correspondent, Paul Wadley, thinks that those of who live at Church Langley would wish fellow Harlow residents near the proposed Gilden Way route ill. It is taxes from all of us that are being squandered. County Hall clearly can't even manage the lighting in Harlow, roads are beyond their ken.

We may be in a development zone but no business can function if the town becomes gridlocked. A southern bypass could be so much more effective at linking the business and proposed science park placed on the west side of town than ploughing a motorway link into the east of the town. It should be a matter for the Public Accounts Committee at Westminster to examine.

Might our civic society have a means of at least getting an independent review before millions upon millions of pounds are wasted? The consultation process appears to be a cosmetic sham.

No excuse for delays in work

SIR With reference to your article in the July 16 edition of the Star headed 'Yet another winter in freezing homes', it will be of little consolation to the residents of Chippingfield to know that throughout Harlow there are clusters and individual homes that have not been improved under the council's modern homes programme.

Cllr Rod Truan, the portfolio holder for housing, is ultimately responsible for the programme and should be aware that just changing its name to the modern homes programme does not take away his responsibility for the failure to bring all of the council's housing up to a decent standard by the end of March 2015.

What is doubly sad for the tenants living in Chippingfield, is that had they had their doors and windows fitted by March, they would have been fitted by a really good decent homes contractor. As it stands we do not know when the work will be done or by whom.

Added to that, the independent tenant representatives that selected the a contractor and worked with them on the quality and manufacture of their products has been disbanded and will be replaced with a council-controlled group with limited representation and no councillor input.

Cllr Truan says the council publishes an outline improvement programme. Has anyone been able to find it on the council's website?

He also states that this is reviewed against the resources the council has available. Since the conclusion of self-financing, the finance has been available to complete decent homes on time so providing the finances have not been moved and used somewhere else, this should not be a problem.

Maybe it's the fact that housing services has lost all its decent homes contractors. Losing one is just plain carelessness and two is maybe unfortunate, but all of them looks a lot like something really serious was going wrong?

Michael Carr
Rundells, Harlow

Just another road hazard

SIR Brilliant – another new roundabout on Southern Way. Now it will be even worse to drive on to the main road from Tysea Road and Tawneys Road because the traffic will not slow down.

It will be just another inconvenient chicane to negotiate whilst driving at 40mph, meaning we will have to take our life in our hands and hope we get across Southern Way without incident.

Thank you to the people who thought long and hard for just a few minutes and said the motoring public will love the changes.

Many cars won't fit in garages

SIR In response to Jade Gillespie's letter about garages (Star, July 16), most garages in Harlow – and every other town – are built to a width of seven feet.

Even new houses are still being built with either detached or integral garages of this width. This means most garages are only fit for keeping bicycles or lawnmowers in.

Ms Gillespie will be aware that there are rows of garages, some in a state of disrepair, in Harlow which will never be used for what they were intended.

For example, the Land Rover Discovery has a width of six feet and four inches and so do many other vehicles, which means they have to stand in the open.

Michael Cox

It's an insult to working people

SIR Robert Halfon tells us that he loves Harlow and his support for local organisations and promotion of the town is hard to fault.

However, his persistence with the mistruth about his Conservative Party being the 'Workers Party' is like 1930s propaganda and an insult to working people in the constituency.

His party is the party of punitive welfare reform, of deteriorating pay and conditions via low paid zero hour contracts and hostile anti-trade union legislation setting workers' right back decades.

When this legislation comes to be voted on, will he vote for the working people of Harlow or his Conservative bosses? His record over the past five years suggests the latter.

Let's reignite Paralympics

SIR What a treat to see Team GB's Paralympians such as Hannah Cockcroft and David Weir competing once more in the Olympic Stadium on National Paralympic Day. It took me right back to the incredible euphoria of the London 2012 Games.

But three years on, has the Paralympic legacy survived? I work for the charity Revitalise which runs the Jubilee Lodge centre in Chigwell providing respite holidays for disabled people and carers. We did a survey of our guests directly after the 2012 Paralympics and over half told us that they didn't think the public had a better understanding of the lives of disabled people as a result of the Games. I dread to think what they might say now.

Disabled people have enormous potential. They want to play a part in society, to make a contribution, but all too often they are held back by the negative attitudes of society itself.

The 2012 Paralympics did an enormous amount of good but until we start thinking in terms of what disabled people can do and not what they can't, there is little prospect of any lasting change. That's why events like the weekend's Anniversary Games are so important, because they remind us of something that is so often hidden from view.

So I'd like to ask Star readers to help us reignite the Paralympic flame. Please join us in calling for a society where disabled people have the same opportunities to pursue their dreams and make a meaningful contribution to their communities as everybody else.

It's party time for pirates and princesses

CHILDREN dressed as pirates and princesses to raise money for charity.

The themed-party at Fidgety Fingers nursery in Willow Place, Hastingwood, was the final fundraiser of the term.

During the past few months the nursery has raised more than £600 for Porridge and Rice, a charity working to tackle child poverty in Africa by supporting three community schools in the slums of Nairobi.

Nursery manager Jackie Neagle said: "Throughout the summer we have done a series of fundraising events for the charity. The pirates and princesses party was really good fun on the last day of term."

She added: "The children have done very well and £630 is a fantastic amount of money. For a small nursery to raise so much in just a few months is amazing."

Man stabbed pal in the neck after he 'heard voices'

Jury told it was a miracle 52-year-old victim survived

Court Reporter

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MAN accused of attempting to murder his flatmate after stabbing him in the neck with a large kitchen knife told police he "heard voices".

Michael McFarlane, 59, of Halling Hill, Harlow, said he had been sleeping and woke up in a confused state immediately before the attack which took place in the early hours of May 19 last year.

His victim, 52-year-old Graham Botfield, survived the attack. He managed to reach neighbours and was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital where medics spent half-an-hour stemming the flow of blood from a cut artery.

He underwent a blood transfusion and surgery, but refused to tell police what had happened.

McFarlane appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court on Tuesday when he admitted unlawful wounding but denied charges of attempted murder and inflicting grievous bodily harm.

Andrew Jackson, prosecuting, told the jury the central issue of the case was whether or not McFarlane intended to kill Mr Botfield or cause serious bodily harm.

Mr Jackson said: "This defendant attempted to slay his good friend in the flat they both shared, stabbing him with a large kitchen knife to his neck and cutting an important artery."

"Miraculously, he survived the attack. He was able to go to neighbours where the alarm was raised. McFarlane was found later in Harlow and arrested."

Attack

Mr Jackson added: "There's no dispute this defendant was responsible for the attack, he admitted it to police and he admits it before you."

"They shared the flat for some time and with others, as well. They were friends, there were ups and downs and both men drank large quantities of alcohol."

He said the pair slept on adjoining sofas rather than on beds. Both men were asleep on the night of May 18 and it was while Mr Botfield was sleeping that he was stabbed in the neck.

"Not surprisingly, it woke him up and a laceration on his thumb suggested he tried to defend himself from further attack," said Mr Jackson. "McFarlane put the knife in the sink, changed his clothes and left the flat."

"It took doctors and nurses half an hour to stop the blood flow. Mr Botfield had a blood transfusion and operation and mercifully he survived that attack. McFarlane was arrested an hour or so later after walking near the flat."

Mr Jackson said that after he was arrested, McFarlane told police: "I think I've got myself in a bit of trouble in doing what I've done. Attacking him wasn't going to go down well, I've got to face the consequences."

When interviewed under caution, McFarlane gave a coherent account of what had happened, saying he had done it after he heard voices because he suffered from paranoid schizophrenia.

He claimed Mr Botfield had upset him and, after waking up, he heard voices, became confused, got the knife from the kitchen and stabbed him in the neck while he slept.

The case continues.

Two injured after car overturns on M11

TWO people were injured, one of them seriously, when the car in which they were travelling overturned on the M11 north of Harlow on Tuesday evening.

The motorway was closed for more than two hours following the accident on the southbound carriageway between junctions 8 at Bishop's Stortford and 7 at Harlow.

It happened shortly after 7.30pm on the same stretch of road that was blocked twice in the space of just over four hours on Friday afternoon after a vehicle caught fire and then a car overturned.

On Tuesday evening the southbound carriageway was shut at junction 8 and the northbound stretch between junctions 7 and 8 was also closed to allow an air ambulance helicopter to land.

Firefighters gave first aid to the two casualties, neither of whom was trapped, and made the scene safe before leaving the pair in the care of the East of England Ambulance Service.

Diversions were put in place until the motorway reopened at 10.25pm.

Homes crisis should be 'more important'

Councillors question Fern Hill traveller site spending

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Council was forced to defend plans to refurbish 12 derelict traveller site pitches during a heated debate.

The ruling Labour group came under fire from the Conservative opposition over plans to work with Essex County Council to upgrade the pitches at the Fern Hill travellers' site.

"The Fern Hill site has been part of our town for many years, but it has deteriorated and as a result requires substantial investment," said Cllr Emma Toal, deputy leader and portfolio holder for youth and community.

Upgrade

The cabinet agreed to submit a bid to the Homes and Communities Agency for funding to pay for the upgrade works, which are expected to cost £628,000. Both Essex County Council and Harlow Council have agreed to add £70,000 to the total should they get funding.

Cllr Toal said the council had not consulted with Fern Hill residents and had also considered installing a transit site before deciding against it.

The move follows a report commissioned by the Essex Planning Officers Association that predicted that an extra 387 new sites will be needed to accommodate travellers across the county by 2018.

INVESTMENT: The Fern Hill traveller site could benefit from improvement works

Council leader Jon Clempner said the work was key in helping to secure a permanent High Court injunction to ban illegal encampments from settling in the town.

"If we are going back to court, we have to show what we have explored every possible option before they will grant an injunction. This is a good opportunity for us and an essential piece of the jigsaw," he said.

But the Conservative group led by Old Harlow councillor and deputy group leader Joel Charles warned that the move "is not a priority for residents".

"There are serious questions that have been left unanswered," said Cllr Charles, who also suggested Harlow Council had tried to "bury" the discussion by placing it on page 158 of the agenda.

He added: "People are deeply concerned that the council are rushing this through without consulting residents and only one other suggestion has been considered.

"This is not a silver bullet solution. When we're facing a crisis of homes I don't think this is a priority for residents. I would question the priorities of Harlow Council."

Responding to Cllr Charles, Labour cabinet member Anthony Durcan, said: "We are trying to find a solution beneficial to the wider community."

"It is a brave and courageous move and Harlow Council should be proud of standing up and saying that we want to do something about this problem."

Council forced to defend £6m housing underspend

A £45M PROGRAMME to modernise council housing in Harlow registered an underspend of six million pounds despite complaints from tenants about delays.

A report to Harlow Council's cabinet revealed £6,170,000 had not been spent from the Labour-run authority's housing revenue account during the financial year 2014/15.

But the Conservative opposition questioned where the money – collected from tenants in rent – was going to be spent.

Conservative councillor Simon Carter asked: "What are you going to do with it? That's about a fifth of the annual rent roll."

Cuts

But housing portfolio holder, Cllr Rod Truan said the money needed to be saved as the council was likely to be affected by proposed social housing cuts from the Conservative government.

He said: "There are a lot of unknowns and looking at the national picture I am more worried now than ever have been in my time in office."

"We are seeing a centralising of housing services by George Osborne and I'm worried about what the details of that would mean. There are definite concerns about the future of housing."

Cllr Truan added: "We have been very successful in carrying out the Decent Homes programme (a £45m two-year plan to modernise council houses), which we completed in March."

"We are now also looking at the Modern Homes programme and we have set out a 30-year and 60-year plan for expenditure."

"This has all been achieved under local government self-funding. I am concerned about plans

ON THE BACK FOOT: Housing portfolio holder Rod Truan has been forced to defend a £6m underspend on housing from our Chancellor about the future of social housing. The decline of self-funding will have a big impact on the future of local homes."

Balance

Council officer Andrew Murray, head of housing at Harlow Council, responded by saying the savings were required to help balance the books.

"We have to make sure that our reserve balance is in line with the revenue income," he said.

"We do sometimes see some fluctuations because of that and I am happy with the situation as it is."

Cutting away red tape to help get tenants talking

PLANS to improve communication between social tenants and the council by cutting through red tape have been debated.

Harlow Council want to improve the discussion between tenants, leaseholders and the council as the current process is "no longer working efficiently for the council, officers or customers".

The changes will mean a number of panels will be axed in a bid to deal with issues more quickly.

Councillor Simon Carter said: "I read the report and there doesn't seem to be any timescale for implementing these changes."

"There also wasn't any specific examples of what will be done to increase engagement. It is all very vague."

Cllr Rod Truan said: "These motions are about making sure that the 9,000 or so people in Harlow, living in council housing, are getting the best service possible from the council."

"The report does say a lot of positive things, but did say there were too many panels operating with jobs overlapping."

"It also says there has sometimes been a somewhat negative relationship between councillors, tenants and officers."

"It does suggest the current system structure is no longer working effectively."

"I think it is important that we emphasise that we need to have officers on the front line who are working as efficiently as possible," added Cllr Truan.

"Reducing the number of panels (can help) make sure tenants get specific support in terms of accountability and support they need."

"I would like the council to work with tenants and leaseholders over the next few months to find some of the areas that we can improve."

Tenants reacted angrily to the proposals, which they say reduces public participation.

Government cuts could get worse

THE leader of Harlow Council has warned that things could get worse as the authority waits for news of Government spending cuts.

Speaking at a meeting of the cabinet last week, Cllr Jon Clempner, pictured right, said he was satisfied with the controlled spending of his Labour-led council, but warned that local government budgets could be threatened under the next Conservative spending review.

"There has been improvement in our spending because of strong financial management," he said. "However, there remains a risk to the council's finances (under the Conservative government)."

"While we don't know the outcome of November's spending review, it is thought that local government budgets have not been ring-fenced."

"The forecast is for things to get worse."

Cllr Clempner explained that council reserves had been increased as a precaution and spending was being cut.

"There have been improvements, we will continue to monitor the rates on a weekly basis," he added.

A report to the council showed that in the 2014/15 financial year the council had underspent by £661,000.

Target is missed

A RESPONSE target for residents' complaints was missed by Harlow Council.

The authority aims to respond to 85 per cent of complaints within its target. In the period from January to March this year it only achieved 78 per cent.

"There have been a number of concerns about the time taken for Harlow Council to respond to complaints," said Council leader Jon Clempner.

"Because of that we have started a review to look into other ways that people could contact the council, or make people consider if they really need to at all."

It was also noted that the number of rough sleepers in Harlow, which had reached 15 in quarter four of 2014/15, exceeding the council's target of 10.

Cllr Carter called into question the council's decision to spend money on the service of St Mungo's in helping people off the street when the figures suggested an increase of rough sleepers.

Chance to honour our unsung heroes

Awards will recognise winners' contribution to community

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE search for nominations for an awards ceremony which celebrates the role of Harlow's unsung heroes in community life is under way.

The awards are run by the faith group Heart 4 Harlow which was set up to bring together the church and the wider community to work in partnership for the good of the town. They are held annually to recognise and thank individuals and organisations for their efforts.

A total of 24 Heart 4 Harlow crystal trophies will be presented to the winners at an awards dinner to be held at the Manor of Groves Hotel on Thursday, October 8.

Eight of the awards are earmarked for businesses and the remaining 16 will be presented to individual winners in four different categories – education and sport, charities, good neighbours and civic and community projects.

Awards organiser and Heart 4 Harlow town chaplain Rev Robert Findlay said this week: "We want Star readers to suggest someone who deserves a mention of appreciation for the contribution they have given to the town."

"The evening is an opportunity to say thank you to the people who have made an excellent contribution to building the communities in Harlow and district."

To nominate an individual or group, all you have to do is complete the attached

Family fun day is a hit with Downs charity

A FAMILY fun day raised more than £5,000 for a Harlow charity which provides support for children and adults with Downs Syndrome.

Upwards With Downs, which held the event at The Link, in Parsloe Road, Harlow, is hoping to boost the total raised on the day with matched funding.

Among the attractions which entertained the crowd were quad bikes, inflatables and performances by Michael Jackson tribute act Rory J Jackson and Sax on Fire.

A spokeswoman said: "It was a little bit different to the wonderful weather we had last year, but all those who helped or attended the event were amazing, even working through the rain and wind."

FUN FOR ALL: Visitors enjoy the Upwards With Downs family day

The charity will use the proceeds to continue its work, including providing hospitals with information packs on how to break the news to parents that their child has Downs Syndrome.

Match in memory of 'gentle giant' David

THE life of "gentle giant" David Sweeney was celebrated by friends and family at a charity football match and fun day.

Mr Sweeney, who attended Harlow College and worked as an electrician in the area, died earlier this month after he collapsed while walking his dog near his home in Hatfield Heath. He was 29.

Sunday's match at The Link in Parsloe Road, Harlow, raised more than £10,000 for the British Heart Foundation and Essex Air Ambulance.

Some of the money will also be used to buy a memorial bench.

Co-organiser Aime Charles, said: "The weather meant that we had fewer people than we hoped but we had a really good day and I think we have done really well.

"Around 300-400 people came and we had an auction and a raffle as well as the game."

Local businesses supported the raffle by donating hundreds of pounds worth of product, while children's TV network Nickelodeon donated toys and games.

Mr Sweeney's funeral will take place at Parndon Wood Crematorium in Harlow tomorrow (Friday).

Deanna helping dogs in Cyprus

University student on a rescue mission

William Mata

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AN animal-loving student from Sawbridgeworth is on a mission to rescue abused dogs in Cyprus and find them new homes across Europe.

Deanna Hammond works with Saving Pound Dogs Cyprus, regularly travelling abroad as well as working from home.

SPDC is a group of volunteers based in Cyprus and the UK who work with local dog pounds either to reunite lost dogs with their owners or find new homes for them in Cyprus or abroad.

The 21-year-old is a student at Anglia Ruskin University, where she studies animal behaviour, and also finds the time to work as an assistant at a boarding kennels and cattery in Old Harlow as well as at the town's branch of cinema chain Cineworld.

She lives in Queen's Road with her family - mum Julia, stepdad Brian and younger brother Samuel - as well as six dogs, four cats and a chicken.

POUND LAND: Deanna Hammond with one of the dogs in Cyprus

"I've been working for SPDC by promoting, organising, fundraising and checking potential adoption/foster homes since the beginning of June," she said.

In addition to its adoption work, the organisation helps to improve the quality of life for dogs remaining in the pounds and get them access to local vets. It rehomed more than 1,000 dogs in 2013-14.

Deanna, a former pupil of Leventhorpe School, got involved after learning about animal advocacy work in Cyprus through a university course mate who adopted a dog from the country.

She said: "To anyone considering adopting a dog from Cyprus but unsure about having a dog from abroad, I would reassure them that the dog will be no different from one in the UK except more grateful."

"Cyprus dogs will have a full passport, meaning any illnesses will have been ruled out, they will be microchipped and fully vaccinated."

She added: "We have a huge stray issue in our own country which needs addressing also, which I try to help with."

To find out more about adoption or fostering, or to donate to the cause, visit www.wildatheartfoundation.org/projects-1/saving-pound-dogs-cyprus-spdc.

Charity's work hit by theft of information van

A CHARITY working with young people said thieves who stole a mobile information centre used to raise awareness about the risks of teenage alcohol and drug abuse across Essex have put a risk a programme to train new volunteers.

The seven-year-old van, which belongs to the Essex Young People's Drug & Alcohol Service run by The Children's Society, was taken from outside a youth centre in Chelmsford last Wednesday.

It contained a television, DVD player and a kettle, along with leaflets and information materials.

The thieves used a saw to remove a wheel clamp before driving the vehicle away.

Chris Pegley, a senior project worker for The Children's Society in the east of England, said: "We are trying to do important work with young people and we've been prevented from doing this by other people's inconsideration and greed. I put a lot of blood, sweat and tears into putting this information unit together and it's extremely frustrating that we aren't able to go out and do street work anymore."

He added: "We were about to start a whole new programme to train up volunteers to support young people out-of-hours across Essex, and all of this is now in doubt."

Anyone with information about the stolen van – registration number AU58 BXX – should call police on 101 or (01245) 491491.

Scouting pair head off to the Far East for world jamboree

TWO teenagers from Harlow have travelled to the Land of the Rising Sun on the trip of a lifetime to the 23rd World Scout Jamboree in Japan.

Explorer Scouts Emma Njagi, 17 and Chris Chappell, 14, will spend 11 days at the jamboree site in Yamaguchi City where they will join more than 30,000 Scouts and Guides from all corners of the globe.

The pair set off on Sunday and will stay with a Japanese family before returning to the UK on August 8.

FLYING THE FLAG: Chris and Emma

During the course of the jamboree they will have the opportunity to take part in various activities including rock climbing and sailing.

The theme of the jamboree is the spirit of unity and one of the highlights of the two-week trip will be a visit to the peace project at Hiroshima.

Emma and Chris are representing Harlow District Scouts. Before leaving, Chris said: "I can't wait to meet all the other people from different countries and learn about what life is like for them."

Anger over dump site plan

Halfon shares residents concerns over proposal for Green Belt land

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS are calling on Essex County Council to dump plans to use Green Belt land near the M11 roundabout on the outskirts of Harlow as a waste disposal site.

County Hall is proposing that land next to the M11-A414 roundabout at Hastingwood could be used for the open-air disposal of inert construction, demolition and excavation waste.

But villagers and North Weald parish councillors have voiced concerns that using the site – which is near to St Clare Hospice – will increase the level of traffic on an already-congested road.

The site is within the boundary area of North Weald Parish Council and a decision on the plan will be made by Epping Forest Council.

Parish council chairman Cyril Hawkins said:

"As it currently stands this would suggest that a construction, demolition and excavation waste site could be located next to housing, a hospice, a garden centre and a restaurant which is completely inappropriate."

"There are concerns at the number of lorry movements, especially as the county council would have no further involvement in either running the site or in terms of traffic movements to and from waste facilities, and both their origin and destination."

Cllr Hawkins added: "The parish council says it has been calculated that there would be a minimum of eight large lorries entering and exiting the site every hour, seven days a week and 52 weeks a year."

Members of the district council's overview and scrutiny committee have already said the the proposal should be rejected, fearing it would increase traffic congestion at junction 7 of the

M11. Harlow MP Robert Halfon expressed his reservations in a letter to the county council after being contacted by local residents worried about the proposed development.

"I have received a number of complaints from residents about planned developments on the site at Hastingwood," he told the Star.

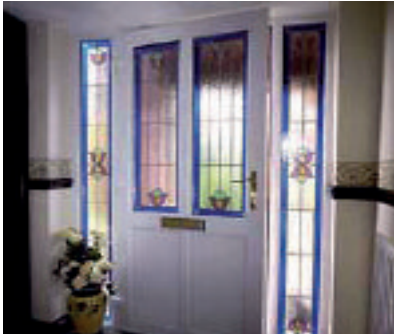

"Constituents have written to me about the increased strain that this could have on local highways which is already under pressure, particularly at the M11 junction."

"There have also been concerns raised about the proposal for the site to be extended into previously undeveloped land and the impact that the recycling plant could have on the Mark Bushes Complex which is located 500 metres off the site."

"I believe that as the site falls within the Green Belt it is an unsuitable place to begin development."

OPPOSED: North Weald Parish Council chairman Cyril Hawkins

Academy ending the year on a high note or two CHILDREN from Kingsmoor Academy were in full voice as they brought the year to an end in song.

The school choir sang a selection of numbers and strummed on inflatable guitars as part of the showcase end-of-year performance.

Year 3, 4 and 5 pupils raised the roof of the school hall through a spectacular performance greatly aided by light and sound equipment bought with money raised through a parents quiz night.

The Ploysters Road academy had held the quiz night a few weeks in advance of the performance.

School's new classrooms in the summer

COOKS Spinney Primary School will be revamped this summer with a major building work project.

Three new classrooms will be built over the six week break as part of the school's transition to academy status, under the Burnt Mill Academy Trust.

Following new flooring and paintwork, the new classrooms will modernise the school which will change its name to Cooks Spinney Primary Academy when it re-opens its doors in September.

KidZania gave pupils chance to grow up...

Children's day of adult roleplay

William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

CHILDREN are growing up faster than ever, and pupils from Freshwaters Primary were handed money and told to find themselves a job as part of a school trip.

Thankfully, the primary academy students weren't let loose in the real world, but at KidZania, a child-sized city in London.

Freedom

All the students from the School Lane primary enjoyed the freedom to roam the city and responsibly spend the KidZania currency.

Children were given opportunities to get involved in more than 60 real life role play activities – such as manning a bank, performing on stage or fighting crime as police officers.

Teresa Avey, assistant headteacher at Freshwaters, said: "KidZania is such an amazing child-centred place which gives children a rare opportunity to have the day in the life of an adult.

CUTTING EDGE: Children got to play at being hospital doctors

"Teachers and parents were asked to leave children to their own devices and not step in and assist as they move around the world."

LIFT-OFF: Little Parndon staff and pupils with their eyes on the skies

Build a rocket, boys (and girls)

A NEW generation of scientists could be on the hands of Little Parndon Primary School, who inspired the students on a trip.

Year 3 pupils visited the Science Alive activity centre in Harlow's town centre and learnt about chemical reactions before launching rockets they had built.

Headteacher Sophie Laing said: "This was a big trip for the school, with all of Year 3 walking to the venue and back. How fantastic to have a resource within walking distance of our school.

"All of the children came back absolutely full of enthusiasm for science. The day was full of hands-on activities and so the children were fully engaged in the topic.

"At this age, they do a little bit of science in school, but this helped to make science more interesting and interactive for them.

"The children will also be able to use the experience to inspire their writing as well as being able to refer back to it in the future."

POEMS, CAKE AND ALL THAT JAZZ

St John's ARC, Market Street, Old Harlow
Friday, August 7 (2pm)
£8 (£6 concessions)

Prepare to enjoy an afternoon of indulgence and delight as the ARC presents a medley of jazz and swing performed by David Price and Maralyn, interspersed with poems by local poet John Steer. Tea and homemade cake will be on sale in the refectory before the start of performance and during the interval.

CHRIS LORD & HER BLUES EXPRESS

Rhodes, South Road, Bishop's Stortford
Wednesday, August 12 (7.30pm)
Free

A powerful and raunchy six-piece, Chris Lord & Her Blues Express perform classic rhythm & blues with the kind of exuberance and joy which belies their collective years of musical experience. Driven by the superb voice of Christine Lord and supported by a heady mixture of tenor saxophone and guitar, the band's influences range from early artists like Bessie Smith and Big Mama Thornton through the golden years represented by the three kings to more modern exponents of the art like Etta James and Beth Hart.

AN EVENING OF MEDIUMSHIP WITH CRAIG MORRIS

Victoria Hall Theatre, Bury Road, Old Harlow
Friday, September 4 (7.30pm)
£10

Craig Morris brings his Journey With Spirit Tour to the Old Harlow theatre, connecting with loved ones who have crossed over and made their transition into the spirit world.

COLIN FRY - THE SIXTH SENSE TOUR
Rhodes, South Road, Bishop's Stortford
Saturday, September 5 (7.30pm)
£18.50

As one of the world's most recognised spiritualist mediums and healers, Colin Fry's TV series Sixth Sense has now been broadcast worldwide for 14 years, making his public performances much in demand. This year's tour will once again see him bring his own unique form of comfort and upliftment to ordinary people living ordinary lives.

Go back to the '70s

FOR one night only the 70s live on with flares, space hoppers, boots, and of course music, all coming to Harlow's Playhouse in September.

Audiences are invited to get "the taste of an era" when a six-piece band perform the hits that defined a decade for the Solid Gold 70s Show.

The diverse musicians, some of whom have previously toured with Mike Oldfield and Ultravox, are well equipped to cover glam rock greats, disco hits and power ballads from the Top of the Pops generation.

Expect covers of ELO, T Rex, Queen, 10cc, The Osmonds, Bay City Rollers, David Cassidy and David Essex when the show comes to town on Friday, September 11.

Producer Gary Mac, who was previously behind The Magic of Motown, said the country touring show is "all about the audience".

"It is giving people a taste of a different era," he said.

"It is a really fun show that is very fast-paced, which you could probably expect when you're trying to cram 25-30 artists into one setlist."

The band are led by the charismatic Janey Smith, who is able to shift between Suzi Quatro and Karen Carpenter with impressive ease.

"Janey always brings a camera with her and loves to take a selfie with her back to the audience," said Gary.

"She is so versatile and audience friendly, but all of the members are very talented."

A unique part of the show is the participation of the audience, which Gary believes is as much a spectacle as the performances themselves.

Audiences are invited to dress up in retro outfits and sing-a-long to the hits to make the show feel more like 1977 than 2015.

Gary added: "We have people come dressed as Noddy Holder sometimes, the audience can always really get into character."

"If anyone wants to get a feel of the show, I'd ask them to check out our Facebook group where you can see all the amazing costumes that people come wearing."

"Essex audiences are notorious for showing what they really think - I hope we can put on a show for them in Harlow."

■ Tickets range from £19.50-£22.50 and are on sale now from www.harlowplayhouse.co.uk.

Theatre company wants Harlow memories for new play

A THEATRE company are looking to meet Harlow residents to find ideas for a new play.

Parkway Dreams is a production from Eastern Angles Theatre Company which looks to explore life in a new town.

Showing in The Playhouse in October 15-16, Parkway Dreams will bring to life memories of living in a town that has only existed in its current form for less than 70 years.

A member of the company will be in Harlow Town Library from 12-2pm on Friday, July 31.

A spokeswoman said: "We're looking for your memories of the

What the Dr ordered

SOME of the craziest characters in history will be coming to Harlow for possibly the wildest performance of the year.

Doctor Longitude's Marvellous Imaginary Menagerie, to give the show its full name, will be performed outside in the Parndon Wood Nature Reserve as part of the Harlow Playhouse Out & About series.

Creator and director James Seager explained: "It's about a crazy character, Doctor Longitude, who has a collection of strange beasts and misfits," he explained.

"They travel around in an old wagon and five characters explain about the beasts and how they caught them."

Doctor Longitude will be performed on

PYGMALION - MOOT HOUSE PLAYERS
The Stow, Harlow

It is impossible for an Englishman to open his mouth without making some other Englishman hate or despise him."

So wrote Bernard Shaw in his condemnation of the English class system – and it holds as true today as when the Irishman penned it 100-odd years ago.

Although it dates from a time none of us living today can envisage, Shaw's most popular play still has much to say about the class divide and how it can impact harshly on people's lives.

Phonetics expert Professor Henry Higgins makes a bet with fellow enthusiast Colonel Pickering he can take a poor girl and – with training in diction and manners – pass her off as a lady at a society ball.

He selects cockney flower seller Eliza Doolittle and eventually achieves his ambition. But at great cost to Eliza, who then feels cast adrift – too posh for her working class roots and too common to hold a position in polite society.

With its large cast and period setting, Pygmalion could have been an over-ambitious choice for the Players. But thanks to director Henrietta Branwell's keen ear for both the dialogue and the manners of Wednesday, August 5, with performances at 2pm and 4pm.

James continued: "It's kind of aimed at all ages. It has been said it is for eight-year-olds to 80-year-olds, it is a big family show. We have taken the show all over the country and even been to the Reading and Latitude festivals.

"We have converted a horsebox into a touring theatre and taken it to Edinburgh and Dublin. We started doing it in 2013 and it has been out every summer since. We only tour in the summer, as it is an outdoor play."

The company and audience will be hoping for warm weather on the day, but rain or shine, the show must go on.

Harlow is one of many venues the production will be taken to over summer and the cast have become very close knit on board the old tour bus which doubles as their stage.

"We are nursing a vehicle along, it's quite an old one, but I'm hoping it will last a couple of years longer," James added.

James said the show draws both modern and historical inspiration, with costume designer Sam using Victorian fashion and the Heath Ledger film The Imaginarium of Doctor Parnassus as a reference point.

"We are looking forward to coming to town it is a show that is fun for the family and quite different, but in times still also very funny," he said.

■ Tickets cost £8.50. For more information, visit www.playhouseharlow.com.

See festival preview for free at Square

TWO comedy performances will give Harlow audiences a taste of the Edinburgh Festival when they play at The Square this summer.

On the bill for Wednesday, August 5 will be Clare Harrison's 15 minutes of Shame and Trevor Feelgood: The Dork Knight Rises in 3D.

As a warm-up to the famous Scottish festival, Square organisers are offering free entry on the night, as both comics will try out new material which promises to make audiences cry with mirth.

Chris Norton Walker will be on compere duty for the night, while Clare Harrison's show will feature a special guest appearance from comic Paul Miles.

The 'Funsie Feelgood Preview' will be a great launching point for rising comedienne Claire, who is also an accomplished yoga teacher and writer.

Her new variety show entertains audiences with tales from her experiences of a wonderfully-varied career that has included appearing on Channel 4 show First Dates and meeting Russell Brand in a dress designed as a massive condom.

Trevor, meanwhile, will be playing in Edinburgh from August 8-22.

■ Doors open at 8pm at the Fourth Avenue venue.

LA TRAVIATA

Harlow Playhouse

Thursday, September 10 (7.30pm)
£32

Performed with a live 30-piece orchestra for the first time on this scale, the Russian State Ballet and Opera House present Giuseppe Verdi's La Traviata, one of the world's greatest operas telling a story of love, sacrifice and misunderstanding. Violetta, a courtesan, is stuck in a cycle of endless parties until writer Alfredo convinces her to live in the country. Deeply in love, she is content until compelled to leave Alfredo in the arms of another. A tragic and resonate tale of society and morality, La Traviata combines compelling characters with powerful, moving and instantly recognisable melodies making it still, 160 years after its 1853 debut, one of the most emotionally engaging and popular operas of all time. To see this opera is to have an experience of unforgettable emotive power and reflection. The opera will be sung in Italian with English subtitles.

PUNK ROCK

Victoria Hall Theatre, Bury Road, Old Harlow

Wednesday, September 16 - Saturday, September 19 (8pm)

FOOD & DRINK

Nat's cheery for cherries

A COUPLE of years ago, Natalie Coleman was as likely to be spinning the decks in a nightclub as flitting between saucepans in the kitchen.

All that changed in 2013, when the former credit controller and part-time techno DJ won MasterChef and hung up her headphones to pursue her passion for cooking.

"The DJ-ing days are long gone. It's only friends' parties these days. Which is a shame, because I loved playing my music, but you can't do it all," says the 31-year-old.

"I packed up my office job, and now everything I do revolves around food."

Since being crowned winner of the BBC One show, Coleman has brought out her own book, Winning Recipes For Every Day, completed work placements in the kitchens of top chefs such as Marcus Wareing and Michel Roux Jr, and appeared at numerous food festivals and roadshows.

But while Coleman – who jokingly describes herself as "the girl from Hackney done good" – confesses her kitchen is "too tiny to swing a cat in", she won't be moving away from her east London base any time soon.

"I like it too much here. There's so much going on, loads of places to eat, you've got Brick Lane, Broadway Market, Vietnamese food – everything's on your doorstep."

Coleman's latest project is a series of recipes for British cherries to mark this summer's season.

"You can do so many different things with cherries," says Coleman. "They go really nicely with savoury dishes. With the pork recipe, you need something that's a bit sharp to cut through the fatty meat, so they work really well with it."

Using fresh, seasonal produce in her dishes is important to the chef.

But what she's most enthusiastic about is inspiring youngsters to get involved in the kitchen.

SWEET TREAT:
Cherry Mess

She's teamed up with Central Street Cooking School in the capital to host affordable cookery lessons for local children.

"They're such a laugh and the kids are so responsive, they love it," says Coleman, who finds the classes are a way of encouraging picky eaters to try dreaded fruit and veg.

"We turn fruit and vegetables into something cool. Tomorrow we're doing little chicken shish kebabs and flatbreads and a 'slaw, they don't realise how many vegetables they're getting, and we're doing muffins with cherries in them," she adds.

The busy cook and food writer still finds time to tune into MasterChef, which she returned to last year as a guest judge.

"Last season was great. When I went back, I did feel for them. I was in their shoes once, and I know what it's like."

Here's one of Coleman's recipes for British Cherries for you to try...

CHERRY MESS (Serves six)

For the meringues:

4 egg whites
 150g caster sugar
 1/2 tsp white wine vinegar

For the roasted cherries:

500g cherries - pitted
 2tbsp runny honey
 Zest 1/2 orange
 1 vanilla pod - split and seeds removed

For the vanilla whipped cream:

300ml double cream
 3tbsp icing sugar
 1tbsp vanilla paste

3 ginger biscuits blitzed to ground crumbs

Preheat the oven to 160C/Gas Mark 3. Whisk the egg whites with an electric mixer to stiff peaks. Add the sugar, one tablespoon at a time, whisking well between each addition.

Fold in the vinegar with a spatula, then spoon the meringue mixture on to a baking tray lined with baking parchment, 1.5cm thick.

Reduce the oven temperature to 150C/Gas Mark 2 and bake for 45 minutes, or until the outside of the meringue is set lightly golden brown and the inside will be chewy. Leave to cool on the baking tray. Once cooled, break into pieces.

For the roasted cherries, preheat oven to 180C/Gas Mark 4. Place all the ingredients into a baking tray and mix well. Roast in the oven for 20 minutes until the cherries have softened. Remove from the oven and remove the vanilla pod. Allow to cool to room temperature before serving.

For the vanilla whipped cream, whisk or, using an electric mixer, beat the cream, icing sugar and vanilla paste until soft swirls and set aside until ready to serve.

To serve, add the broken meringue pieces to the vanilla whipped cream and then fold through the roasted cherries, but don't mix too well as you want it to be red and white, not pink. Spoon into glasses, sprinkle with the crushed ginger biscuits and serve within 30 minutes so the meringue keeps its texture.

THRILLER (15) 102 MINS

Arrow Films DVD/Blu-ray £14.99; or on-demand from various streaming services

In the Nevada desert, commanding officer Jack Johns (Bruce Greenwood) welcomes new recruits to his outfit of Air Force drone pilots. Major Tom Egan (Ethan Hawke) is one of the few men at the base, who has actually taken to the skies and hankers for a return to the cockpit rather than sitting in an air-conditioned crate, staring at the enemy through a lens. His wife Molly (January Jones) and daughter Jesse (Sachie Capitani) spend precious time with Tom in their picket-fenced home but mentally, he is thousands of miles away. The arrival of a new co-pilot, Vera Suarez (Zoe Kravitz), has a profound impact on Tom as he wrestles with his conscience and the repercussions of his actions. Good Kill is a clinical thriller, which considers how the moral fabric of combat has been warped by conducting war with joysticks, using soldiers who have been recruited at video-gaming conferences and have never experienced active duty.

Tom's cruising for a bruising in No5

Hanging off the side of a plane? Nothing is impossible for Tom Cruise... As Ethan Hunt's fifth spy adventure comes to screens, Susan Griffin heads on a mission to find out more

Since his debut as Mission: Impossible super spy Ethan Hunt back in 1996, Tom Cruise has continued to surprise fans, and himself, by achieving ever more spectacular stunts in the film series.

"Each time I think, 'I've seen it all', and, 'I've been through every action challenge a film can have', the next film introduces new challenges of every kind, because we're constantly pushing the action sequences, storytelling and characters," notes the 53-year-old superstar, who also acts as producer on the franchise.

"It's about giving audiences the greatest sense of adventure and scale," Cruise adds.

And in the fifth instalment, Mission: Impossible – Rogue Nation, they're pushing the bar even further, with one notable sequence involving Cruise clinging onto the side of an Airbus aircraft.

Ahead of its release, we take a closer look at the movie that promises to be the biggest adventure yet...

Tick tock, tick tock

Every Mission: Impossible film starts out as a ticking clock set-up. This time, the deep-cover espionage agency, known as the IMF, has to tackle the threat of The Syndicate, a rogue agency that's become a major terrorist crime empire. The Syndicate also has the spy power to bring down any nation it targets – although the CIA continues to deny its existence. "Right from the film's first moments, Ethan and the team are on their heels, desperately moving from one situation to the next," notes Cruise. But while his character will be relentless in pursuing what he believes is right, "he's not a super hero, he's very human", adds the actor.

Finding the helmsman

Cruise decided early on that he wanted a different director for every Mission: Impossible movie, and it was his decision to bring in Christopher McQuarrie. He's someone Cruise had worked with before, on Valkyrie and 2014's Edge Of Tomorrow, for which McQuarrie was a screenwriter, and in the director's chair on 2012's Jack Reacher.

"Chris is an extraordinary writer and film-maker, and to see his sensibility applied to this genre is something I was excited about," remarks Cruise. "What Chris and I share is that both of us have that need to make every moment the best it can be."

The vision

McQuarrie, who also wrote the screen play for Rogue Nation, wanted to pull together the dream team and give all members of the IMF (Jeremy Renner's William Brandt, Simon Pegg's Benji and Ving Rhames' Luther Stickell) a major role.

He also wanted to delve into unexplored territory. "Two things that jumped out at me that we hadn't seen before: a villain who was a real physical threat to Ethan, and a strong independent woman who would give Ethan a run for his money," explains McQuarrie.

Woman on a mission

Swedish actress Rebecca Ferguson, who appeared in the 2013 TV period drama The White Queen, was chosen to play the mysterious spy Ilsa Faust, who alerts Hunt to the grave threat posed by The Syndicate. Despite only having a few weeks to train, as well as a fear of heights and claustrophobia to overcome, she threw herself into preparing to play someone whose skill-set matches that of Hunt's.

"I had to just do it and so I did," states the 31-year-old actress, who's admitted to having had a huge childhood crush on her co-star. "It was six hours a day, six days a week of stunt rehearsals, learning the specifics of hitting, ducking and jumping. But we found this robust, raw, animalistic style of fighting for her that's really cool, and unlike any you've seen."

The villain of the piece

Of all the villains who've appeared in the franchise over the years, Rogue Nation's is arguably the most dangerous, because this one has the intellect and physical ability to compete with Hunt. Solomon Lane is a former British spy who's turned to the dark side of espionage in forming The Syndicate. "The Syndicate is a kind of anti-IMF, agents who've been trained just like the IMF, but do the work of evil," explains producer J.J. Abrams.

Sean Harris, who played a crew member in Prometheus, was picked for the role. "Sean owned the sociopathic nature of Lane," observes executive producer Don Granger. "He makes you believe in how he is with Ethan: half brutal, half trying to seduce him."

Flying without wings

Cruise is known for tackling his stunts head on, and no CGI effects were used in the eye-popping opening sequence, which sees Hunt gripping onto the side of an Airbus A400M. To protect his eyes, he wore special lenses, but there was no padding. "I couldn't sleep the night before," Cruise admits. "I was going through it all in my mind. I knew once we took off, if something went wrong, no one could do anything. We started taxiing and suddenly, boy – that throttle goes and we're hammering down that runway." In total, he repeated the gravity-defying stunt eight times to ensure McQuarrie got everything he needed.

Reaching new depths

The Mission: Impossible lead didn't only reach for the skies, but plunged beneath the waves for a scene in which Hunt carries out a heist inside a deep-water facility. To prepare for filming, Cruise began an intensive apprenticeship in free diving, whereby people descend to huge depths without the aid of breathing equipment. "We were doing long shots and when your body is moving that much, it's burning oxygen much faster, so there was just a lot of physical stress. It took me much longer to recover from than any other sequence," he recalls. "I have to say, physically, it was without a doubt the most challenging aspect of this film."

■ Mission: Impossible – Rogue Nation is released on Thursday, July 30

Baby wildcats are so purrfect

THREE new baby wildcats have been born in a Scottish zoo to boost numbers of the endangered species.

The three kittens were born at the end of April but have spent two months under the close supervision of their mother at Highland Wildlife Park in Invernesshire.

Now the cats have come out to play and have spent this week excitedly exploring their territory.

Scottish wildcats are a very rare species facing a battle to survive.

The species are native to the UK but have faced extinction threat due to habitat loss, accidental persecution and competition with domestic and feral cats. However the zoo team at Highland Wildlife have stepped up their efforts to conserve the species.

David Barclay, conservation project officer at the zoo, said: "Without Scottish Wildcat Action the future of the Scottish wildcat is bleak.

"The team is working hard all over Scotland to ensure measures are put in place to reduce threats, raise awareness and protect the remaining wild population."

Wildcats are not to be confused with domestic cats. While they share similarities, the Scottish wildcat has a ringed tail and an aggressive behaviour. They also prefer to live alone.

Mother wildcats are famously protective of their young and a litter of three is a typical number. The Scottish wildcat is among the rarest species in the world.

Characterful cottage in quiet hamlet

Little Bakers is a rarely-available idyllic detached house located in tranquil Wrights Green, Little Hallingbury.

With original beams throughout this spacious Grade II-listed home, the property offers beautiful original features throughout, including parquet floors. The ground floor has beautiful garden views from every aspect.

The lounge is light and airy and has dual aspect windows and a gas fireplace, which could be opened up and used with an open fire.

The kitchen is immaculately presented, with a stable door leading to the side and rear garden. It also has a separate utility area and leads onto a dining area.

A large hallway has an open fireplace and the staircase from the hallway is behind a doorway.

The first floor benefits from four double bedrooms and each individual bedroom has beautiful rear or front garden views. There is a fifth walk-through room, which could be used as a bedroom, dressing room, or family room.

The main bathroom has been recently renovated in character with a white suite.

This rarely-available property is being marketed for £749,995 by PM Estates, 6 Riverside Walk, South Street, Bishop's Stortford. Tel: 01279 654646.

SALE FACTS

PROPERTY OPINION

Don't be afraid to ask for help

IT was 200 years ago when Napoleon met his Waterloo – at Waterloo. Meeting one's own Waterloo comes to all of us from time to time.

I can think of many occasions in property when deals have gone sour, buyers have faltered leaving bitter sellers or sellers have changed their minds at the last minute, leaving very frustrated buyers.

Sometimes mortgages haven't materialised or for some legal or survey reason the wheels have come off a transaction. Stuff happens.

But sometimes stuff needn't happen. A well-planned sale or purchase in the hands of an experienced expert has a great deal more chance of success than an ill-planned attempt put in the hands of the inexpert.

For those who don't move home very often – and that is most of us – the property market can be a confusing place in which to find oneself.

There are so many conflicting claims and counter claims and many differing points of view that it is difficult sometimes to know what to do for the best.

But it is not a good idea to start by doing things on your own with no expert back up.

It is also sensible not to start with a cut-price estate agent because mostly all one gets is a cut-price service with a cut-price return.

Some sellers who haven't moved for many years may find lots of different and unfamiliar estate agency names locally and won't know which to turn to.

This is because over the years firms come and go. So it is perhaps best to choose a firm that has not recently come and will not shortly be going.

It's better by far to choose a longer-established firm with a strong and enduring reputation and established links with the local community.

These are the ones with staying power and for one reason – they are good at getting people moved.

But don't confuse long established with dated. Today all estate agents are online estate agents.

They have to be online, it is the ways things are now.

But those who simply call themselves "online" are often merely internet-only firms.

The fuller-service firm brings a lot more to the party, which is why the cost can be higher. But the rewards can be much greater.

It is tempting to be cynical about the property industry but it would be better to resist that urge.

Oscar Wilde described a cynic as "a man who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing".

It is easy to save a few pounds here and there on service but it could cost thousands and even tens of thousands in the long run – I've seen that happen too.

Stuff happens – ask Napoleon. But stuff needn't happen with the right support – ask Wellington.

TOWN FOCUS

With its wealth of parks and green spaces, Great Dunmow is a great place for families and is just a short journey to London.

By Harriet Sinclair

harriet.sinclair@essexchronicle.co.uk

AN HISTORIC market town with good transport links and several schools, Great Dunmow is becoming so popular it's hard to find property in the area.

The high street is absolutely packed with independent shops and restaurants, while the local community remains tight-knit.

Therefore, the town provides a good mixture of the laid-back country life that people crave, while still being a vibrant and busy shopping hub, and close enough to bigger towns and cities.

Jonathan Cadwallader, a local councillor for Great Dunmow North ward, who has had links with the town since 1959, said: "It's a beautiful old town, with many historic buildings in it.

"It's still got its character, so it's a market town, but it's very close to the countryside as well. We also have excellent transport links, with the new A120 close by, so you can get to the M11 very quickly now.

"Really though, it's the community spirit we've got here that is just so terrific.

"We have a big group of people who do volunteer and charity work, our elderly people and youngsters here are well looked after and there are still a lot of people here who grew up here and have raised their own children here, which is lovely."

And it seems house hunters are keen to buy up their own little space in the town.

Nick Webber, manager of Beresfords estate agents, said: "The market is extremely buoyant at the moment; we have a lot of non local interest from north and south London, Epping, Walthamstow, Dagenham and Romford.

"We had a classic example this weekend – we took a house on Saturday and by Monday had four offers over the asking price.

"There's not a lot about, so when property comes on the market, it goes quickly. There are 10 buyers for every house these days."

Negotiator Steve Bird from Malcolm Danford and Co estate agent in Great Dunmow explained that it is a seller's market.

He said: "From an agent's point of view, it's a frustrating market in Great Dunmow at the moment because there is such an imbalance between supply and demand and there is a lot of interest from applicants.

"There is a lack of choice here, so it doesn't matter what kind of property you are looking for, it's a seller's market at the moment.

"House prices here are moving slowly upwards, but not as fast as last year. I think we have a lot of people who are looking to move here from areas like north-east London, as there is a better quality of life here, it is cheaper and a lot of people are very happy to commute from Great Dunmow to London."

With houses in short supply, and with such high demand, Mr Bird says properties sell very quickly, with the average three-bedroom detached house fetching around £340,000, with a five-bedroom detached house priced at around £500,000.

He added: "There are all types of pretty homes on the market here and the rental market is also very strong as there are a lot of people who want to move here.

"We have a lot of young professionals and a lot of people who are downsizing, people who have had a big home in the countryside but want to be in a town like this."

Such a popular destination is undoubtedly being eyed by developers and Mr Cadwallader said there may be room for the town to grow, if it was in keeping with the area.

He explained: "People here do accept that it needs to expand and grow, but we want to keep the original reasons that people love living here.

"I think it's a special place and we need to keep it as such."

GETTING around

There are trains running from Chelmsford to Liverpool Street, leaving around every 10 minutes during rush hour and taking around 32 minutes to reach London. A monthly season ticket costs £357.90, with an annual cost of £3,728.00. Stansted Airport is only seven minutes away by car, where commuters can get the Stansted Express to Liverpool Street in 46 minutes.

The 42a and 542 buses travel between

Chelmsford, Dunmow and Stansted leaving around every 10 minutes.

The journey takes around 45 minutes by bus, 30 minutes by car or is around an hour by bike (depending on cycling speed).

EDUCATION for all

Great Dunmow Primary School was rated 'Good' when it was last inspected by Ofsted in May 2014. The achievement of pupils, leadership and management of the school and quality of teaching were all found to be 'Good', while the behaviour and safety of pupils was rated 'Outstanding'. The school has two classes per year group and puts and emphasis on literacy, numeracy, investigation, communication and presentation skills. Its Ofsted report said: "Pupils are known and valued as individuals. Their spiritual, moral, social and cultural development is well promoted."

Dunmow St. Mary's Primary School was rated 'Good' when it was last inspected by Ofsted in June 2014. The inspection found that the school maintained a 'Good' rating in all areas of its work, and praised the consistency of pupil's achievements, adding that all students are making good progress in reading, writing and maths. The report said: "Pupils thoroughly enjoy school, behave well and, rightly, feel safe there. They have good relationships with each other and with staff. Attendance is above average and rising."

Secondary school and sixth form Helena Romanes School is an academy and was rated 'Good' when it was last inspected by Ofsted in November 2012. The report highlighted the promotion of literacy, achievements of students in the sixth form and additional support for learning for students who needed it. It said: "Students achieve well across a wide range of subjects. By the time they leave school, they develop into well-rounded young people ready for their next steps in education or the wider world."

The renowned Felsted School is only a few miles away in Felsted.

Brand new 2, 3 and 4 bedroom homes launching Saturday 15th August

fusion

Fusion. Contemporary 2, 3, & 4 bedroom homes in the Newhall neighbourhood. A community designed specifically for 21st century living, where nature, people and design work in harmony. With open spaces, cycleways and play areas and when complete, homes will benefit from a range of shops and a primary school.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).
Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.
What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

RUNWOOD HOMES

Would you like to work in Social Care? Runwood Homes, a leading provider of nursing and residential care for older people, may have the opportunity to suit you.

We now have openings for friendly, caring people to join our team and create a homely and stimulating environment for our residents at Alexandra House, Hamstel Road, Harlow, Essex, CM20 1BU for the following positions:

Lead Nurse - 36.25 hours per week. Minimum 5 years' experience. Previous leadership experience, sound clinical knowledge and registration with the NMC is required. Up to £16.00 per hour (negotiable).

Nurses - Full time, part time and bank, as and when required. Experience of working in a nursing home is preferred and registration with the NMC is essential. £14.50 per hour.

Care Team Managers - Full time, part time and bank, as and when required. Practical experience of working with older people especially those living with dementia is an advantage, however two years' experience in a care assistant role is required. NVQ Level 3 Qualification or similar. £8.94 per hour.

Care Assistants - Full time, part time and bank, as and when required. We welcome friendly, caring individuals who are preferably experienced in care although this is not essential. NVQ level 2 in Health & Social Care desirable. £7.00 per hour.

Please email your CV to hr.recruitment@runwoodhomes.co.uk to apply.

Closing date for applications 21st August 2015.

CLW

This is an exciting time to join our ICT department as we are in the early stages of identifying resilient and scalable solutions to replace a high proportion of our infrastructure and systems, whilst delivering both financial and efficiency savings within the Authority.

The following three roles are available; in return we offer an attractive remuneration package including generous annual leave, a corporate childcare voucher scheme, career average re-valued (CARE) pension scheme and flexible working hours. You will have the opportunity to obtain accredited qualifications and complete courses relevant to your day-to-day work.

Senior Software Engineer

£34,315 - £35,894 per annum

You will be responsible for the support, maintenance and upgrades of all Council applications/databases, whilst continually developing relationships with the relevant application owners, third parties and key users, and be responsible for the support and development of a Junior Software Engineer.

Qualified to degree level in an IT related subject or equivalent, you will have working experience of application support in a similar IT environment. (Ref: IT0037)

Network Analyst

£31,954 - £33,528 per annum

You will be responsible for the continual improvement, maintenance and optimisation of the Council's networks, switches and security, capturing detailed records of any changes or maintenance. You will also make sound decisions on complex incidents raised by customers.

With an A-Level qualification in an IT related subject or equivalent, you will have comprehensive working knowledge of networks, servers and applications, and a good understanding of Virtualisation, storage and Microsoft Server platforms is essential. (Ref: IT0070)

Junior Software Engineer

£18,279 - £19,328 per annum

You will take guidance and instruction from the Senior Software Engineer and assist in application and database support, maintenance, upgrades and development.

Qualified with four GCSEs Grade A-C or equivalent, and with experience of working within an ICT environment, this is an excellent opportunity to build a career within the application/database field. (Ref: IT0038)

Closing date for the above posts: 14 August 2015.

Interview date: Between 24 August and 4 September 2015.

Homefinder Officer

£26,161 - £27,213 per annum

Fixed-term contract for 12 months

This role is based in a small but busy team, focusing on helping tenants access work locally, by promoting the transfer and Homeswapper schemes, and joint working with colleagues at Job Centre Plus.

You will be responsible for the day-to-day management and processing of individual Homefinder applications, internal transfer applications, and internal and external mutual exchanges from registration through to the offer of accommodation. You will also be responsible for the placement of homeless applicants in either Council owned or externally provided temporary accommodation.

Qualified to GCSE A-C in English and Maths or equivalent, you will demonstrate front line Local Authority housing experience, and good literacy, numeracy and communication skills. You will have a professional housing qualification and experience of working in a housing options and/or Choice Based Lettings environment.

You will be required to work out of normal office hours on occasion, and carry out home visits. (Ref: SH0023)

Closing date for above post: 10 August 2015.

For an application form, please visit www.harlow.gov.uk/jobs or contact our recruitment line on 01279 446017. Please quote reference number in all correspondence.

We are committed to interviewing all applicants with a disability who meet the minimum criteria. Jobs may be available on a job share basis.

Swing Low anthem lets kids tune in to discover sport

YOUNG rugby hopefuls turned out in force at Harlow to give the sport a whirl – and learnt to sing rugby anthem Swing Low, Sweet Chariot in the process.

Harlow Rugby Club organised the event with the intention to get as many children as possible having fun and playing and learning about the oval-ball game.

Co-organiser Paul Eynon, manager of the U10s at the Elizabeth Way club, said: "We did exceptionally well, with over 250 people coming to the club for the morning."

"Over 40 new kids tried rugby for the first time. To give some perspective we had just over 100 kids in all the minis section last year."

"The day wasn't just for the new kids, with many of the kids who have been a big part of the club so far also joining in and enjoying themselves."

Have fun

The day started with children and their parents signing up for the event.

The youngsters then separated into their age groups and started to have fun.

The sessions, for six to 12-year-olds, involved practising the skills of running, passing, catching and tagging, or for the older kids a little tackling practice.

Eynon explained: "Part of the day involved teaching the children a cultural element, and what better than to teach the kids a rugby song."

Cup year we opted to teach them the England supporters' anthem Swing Low, Sweet Chariot.

"Each of the groups practiced this before coming together at the end to sing together, and they took to it like a duck to water."

The song is the unofficial England rugby anthem and is sung heartily at Tests at Twickenham. Eynon added: "It was a glorious day at the club, the kids all left tired, with a big smile on their faces and a certificate."

"Many wrist bands were given out which displayed the core values of rugby which are: teamwork, respect, enjoyment, discipline, sportsmanship."

"A massive thank you to the volunteers from across the club who helped pull this all together and make it such a success."

"This is the fourth year we have run this event, which was originally designed to get kids into our entry level U7s team. It now sees us attract players right across the minis section."

Mini rugby is for girls and boys aged six (school Year 2) to 12 (school Year 7).

It is a simplified version of rugby to introduce kids to the sport.

The club are also trying to attract older children to take up the sport, particularly from 13 years upwards, and especially those who have excelled at other sports and want to try out something new.

Teenager Can follow in footsteps of Osagie

Athlete inspired by Great Britain's Olympic 2012 hero

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SOME sporting hopefuls look to world stars as their role models, but for rising 800m star Canaan Solomon his icon is far closer to home.

The similarities between 16-year-old Canaan and London 2012 Olympic Games 800m finalist Andrew Osagie are clear.

Perhaps the only difference is that Osagie attended Burnt Mill School, while Canaan has just finished his GCSEs at Mark Hall.

Canaan has made phenomenal progress this year, culminating in a silver medal at the English Schools' Championships in Gateshead and his first England vest in a home internationals U17 meeting in Scotland earlier this month.

Canaan has attended a couple of training camps at St Mary's University in Twickenham, where he joined up with Harlow Athletic Club member Osagie to take part in a training session.

He said: "I definitely look up to someone like Andrew Osagie because getting to the Olympics, that's the big thing."

Olympic final

Osagie recorded a personal best time in the Olympic final three years ago, becoming a household name for Team GB.

Having come on leaps and bounds this year, Canaan is hoping he can take the next rung on the Osagie ladder to success and earn his first Great Britain vest in spring next year.

"My coach [Richard Thurston] spoke to me about what my main aims are for next year," Canaan said.

"But in terms of what I will work on specifically, I am working on getting a vest, either GB or England. I have always been there or thereabouts but never got it."

Taking silver at the English Schools' Championships was a huge shot in the arm for Canaan.

He clearly has the talent but the psychological side of athletics has let him down in recent years.

"I have been working on the mental side of it and confidence. I know I have the natural physical ability, but it's just the mental side of things, which can make or break an athlete," he said.

"I think it's come on a bit since last year. I think that's what helped me pull through."

Canaan, who turns 17 in September, now progresses to the U20 level, when he will be up against athletes nearly three years older than him.

"Either people step up their game or they wait for their top year, but I'm not going to be waiting, I'm going to be going out there to win," he said.

He will now study sport at Harlow College from September, and he hopes this will be the launch pad to earning a scholarship to study at a university in America, similar to fellow Harlow-born Great Britain sprinter Sam Watts, who is at Texas Christian University.

"I thought that was the best thing for me as I really enjoy sport," Canaan said.

"Hopefully after the next two years I can get a scholarship to go to America. That's my main aim."

Education aside, his main focus is winning more medals and with next year's IAAF World Junior Championships in the Senegalese capital of Dakar on the horizon, this cannot be ruled out for the Woodford Green and Essex Ladies Athletic Club member.

"The European Juniors comes around every two years, so I won't have that next year. The World Juniors is next year but I will be a bit young for that, but you never know," he said.

"It will depend how much I grow. I'm still young. It's a possibility maybe, but it depends how much I come on next year."

"There will be two age groups above me, which will run, so it will be quite hard for me. We will have to see."

"I'm hoping for a GB vest at Loughborough [next spring]. If I can put down a fast time at the start of the season, hopefully I will get picked for that."

His joy at winning a silver medal at the English Schools is clear.

"It was my last chance to get a medal at the English Schools. This was my last year," he explained.

Canaan had to run 1min 56sec to qualify for the English Schools.

He then got the nod for his first international appearance for England after finishing in the top two at Gateshead.

"This is my first season in 800, so I was really happy to get top two in the English Schools [Championships]."

"It was my first year doing the event properly."

He recorded a personal best of 1:52.02 earlier this year and hopes to bring this time down dramatically next year.

Canaan is not the only Harlow athlete making a name for himself.

Sidnie Ward (Burnt Mill) took six seconds off his 800m PB by running 2:07.74 at Watford.

This put him top of the UK U13 boys' rankings and sixth on the UK all-time list in his age group.

Meanwhile, 13-year-old Kyesha Robinson (Burnt Mill) has enjoyed her best track season since taking up athletics at 11.

In three Eastern Young Athletes League meetings, she remains unbeaten.

At Ware's Wodson Park she recorded PBs of 13.00 in the 100m and 42.2 in 300m.

This ranks her 16th in the UK for U15 girls' 300m.

The double Essex County Championships indoors and outdoors 300m gold medalist used blocks for the first time this summer.

She won both the Essex 100m and 200m in PBs of 12.66 and 26.01 respectively at an inter club match at Barnet.

She is now receiving coaching from former Olympic athlete Gladys Bird at Mark Hall Sports-centre.

Gladwin is left wanting more

CRICKET: Harlow Town skipper Neil Gladwin was left disappointed after his side's defeat to Belhus kept them just above the drop zone.

Town are just 26 points above second-from-bottom Ardleigh Green in Shepherd Neame Essex League Division Two after Saturday's 157-run defeat.

"We have six games remaining and need to show an awful lot more fighting spirit if we are to get ourselves out of trouble," said Gladwin.

"From the start of the season I have firmly believed in this group of players and I still do."

"We are not towards the bottom of the league because of lack of ability, but we need to show that ability in the remaining games of the season."

"We need to start this Saturday against Leigh-on-Sea, who we have beaten in the timed games, so I'm hoping that memory can boost the confidence of the guys. It is firmly in our own hands."

After winning the toss Belhus captain Danny Joyce elected to bat. Daniel Farmer's opening spell was full of pace, movement and control as he claimed two wickets.

Both fell to fine catches in the slips by Gladwin and Joe Holland.

At the other end Owais Qasim also got in on the act and Belhus were teetering on 9-3.

Unfortunately this was as good as it got for Harlow as Belhus moved along to 130-3.

The last 13 overs saw Harlow Town pick up four more wickets, but they could not stop Belhus amassing 271-7.

Harlow's reply got off to a solid start with Shiraz Ali and Ashley Alderson pushing the score along to 40.

However the next six overs ripped the heart out of Town's batting order and handed the game to Belhus as the visiting side's dismal batting display ended with them on 114 all out.

Another high point for Lowe

ATHLETICS: Harlow Running Club's Rob Lowe produced another fine performance at the Panshanger parkrun 5K at Hertford.

He was second out of 233 finishers in 18min 16sec.

At the Gunpowder parkrun 5K at Waltham Abbey Adrian Fell was seventh out of 96 finishers in 19:26.

He was followed home by Daniel Jephcott (11th, 2nd U20 19:50), Steve Mackenzie (14th, 3rd Vet 50 20:21), Sharon Wright (24th, 1st lady 22:08), Robin Lozeau (32nd 23:33), Alan Wellbelove (42nd 25:22) and Andy Kinney (72nd 30:31).

Mark Hayward came home 63rd out of 442 finishers in 21:21 at the Bromley parkrun 5K.

At the Hatfield Forest parkrun 5K, Justin Patten was 13th out of 112 finishers in 22:13. He was followed by Terry Pike (35th 24:56), David Page (42nd 25:22) and Janice Page (59th, 1st Lady Vet 50 27:55).

At the Harlow parkrun 5K Spencer Brooks finished 18th out of 101 finishers in 24:12.

Behind him were Martyn Coulter (32nd 25:57 PB), Catherine Ridge (34th, 1st lady 26:06), Debbie Barry (40th 1st lady V50 26:35), Richard Smith (44th 27:45), Ron Newton (51st 28:58 and Austin Nyamande (65th 31:07 PB).

RIZA WANTS HIS OWN EXTRA TIME

Ex-Arsenal striker hoping to make an impact for Hawks

by Alasdair Gold

sportsdesk@hertsexnews.co.uk

FORMER Arsenal striker Omer Riza is hoping he can bounce back from a serious injury and earn himself a deal with Harlow Town.

The 35-year-old's career has seen him play in the Champions League for the Gunners and in Turkey for five years before returning to English football.

Riza ruptured the anterior cruciate ligaments in one of his knees last year while playing at Cheshunt. He is nearing the end of his road to recovery after getting the sack at the Ambers and is hoping he can prolong his playing career.

"I haven't signed anything yet with Harlow. I've done pre-season and I've tried to train, playing in a few of the games," he said.

"It's more about the aftermath of playing and training that I'm struggling with. I'm not sure if it's expected, but it's something I'm having to deal with and see whether I can keep progressing after the injury."

He added: "I ruptured my ACL last May, so 15 months ago. It's been a tough time really."

"It's meant to be a nine to 12 month recovery, but at my age I suppose that can happen [it being longer]."

"I felt really good playing before I got injured. I was 34 and I think the proof was in my performances at Cheshunt."

"I'm just trying to get back now and Harlow being a team that are looking to progress, it was a sensible thing to do."

"I wanted to see how far I can go with this now. There are decisions I have to make in respect of my future playing and coaching."

The Hawks have made two impressive signings this week in winger Joe Benjamin, from Ryman Premier side Dulwich Hamlet and defender Sam West from Heybridge Swifts, while flying winger Junior Dadson has put pen to paper for another season under Danny Chapman.

Riza has been impressed with the squad being built for another push for promotion to the Ryman Premier and hopes he can be a part of it.

Strengthened

"If I can want to continue to play," he said. "I've played well I think so far and the manager is happy. The season is starting soon and there's not long to go. I haven't signed anything, but I'm trying to work hard."

"Harlow have kept the core of their squad which is really important, and brought in a few players that have strengthened it."

"In that respect, from where they finished last year, I don't see why they can't go up. I think they could do very well this year."

Harlow continued to impress in pre-season with a 4-0 win over Ryman Premier side VCD Athletic on Saturday, with goals from Alex Read (2), Dadson and Harry Prince.

On Tuesday, the Hawks saw off Essex Senior League's Sawbridgeworth Town 3-1, with a brace for Read and one for Benjamin.

This Saturday, Chapman's men complete their preparations with a trip to Dean Holdsworth's Brentwood Town.

BATTLING BACK: Omer Riza is hoping to return from injury to play for Harlow Town

Victory eases relegation fear for cricket side

VICTORY against second in the table Southend-on-Sea eased Harlow Cricket Club's relegation fears.

Saturday's win saw them climb up to fifth in the Shepherd Neame Essex League Division One.

Skipper Rehman Ahmed lost the toss again and Harlow were put in to bat on a slightly soft wicket at Southend.

Harlow started well before Hafiz Yawar (15) snicked one behind from the bowling of Daniel Ingham.

Alan Jones was joined at the crease by Ahmed, with the two compiling a partnership of 80 before Ahmed was caught at cover for 40.

Jones batted superbly for 87 before being run out by Joe Robbins.

Decent cameos came from Ahmed Khawaja (31), Conor Ramsey (14) and Luke Monger (16) before Nick Baxter hit the last two balls of the innings for consecutive sixes to give Harlow a respectable score of 246-6.

Breakthroughs

Harlow made early breakthroughs in Southend's reply and the hosts found themselves at 15-2, with both Harlow's opening bowlers taking an early wicket apiece.

Baxter then bowled Matt Wagstaff for ten and Mustanser Meraj found Ross Daynes' edge for just four.

Southend's innings took flight when Phil Gray and Oliver Wagstaff put together a 100 partnership.

But Tom Ryder got the breakthrough, finding a false shot out of Wagstaff for 37.

Lloyd Sykes removed Gray for 64, caught on the boundary.

With the score on 130-4 from 24 overs, it was left to Southend captain Joe Robbins to work with the tail to try to reach Harlow's score.

He ran out of partners and eventually was run out by Meraj on 55 trying to pinch the strike at the end of the over.

Meraj claimed the final wicket, with Harlow bowling out Southend for 221 in 49.2 overs.

The bowlers shared the wickets around - Meraj (2-29), Baxter (2-43), Sykes (2-45) and Monger (1-43) - with Ryder the pick with 2-24 from his ten overs.

Harlow host third-placed Shenfield this Saturday.
